Who is a Competitor?

Anyone or anything that provides solutions to the same problem
your technology or product is seeking to solve,
even if they do it in a completely different way

Where to Find Competitors

- Look through customer interview notes and work flow map
- Ask your customers “how do you do this process today?”
- Search on Google – look at websites and forums
- Market research databases
- Competitors of competitors

Competitive Product Analysis

- What does your competitor seem to think their key value prop is?
- Based on your customer interviews, what do your customers think the 2 most important value props are? How do your competitors perform on these?
- Who currently buys the competitive product or service?
- What do your competitor's customers love about the competitive product?

Understanding Competitors

Identify at least five competitors and their products. List the competitive product’s features and (if possible) prices, and then differentiate how your product has an advantage over the existing product or how it is an improvement on the existing competition.

Refer to Steve Blank’s Lesson 4: Business Models and Customer Development to revisit market opportunity.

Competitor:	Product Type:	Product Name:
Product Features (e.g. Cost, Performance, Convenience, Reliability):
What makes your product better or different?
